Listing optimisation

What are listing titles?

Product images are essential to attracting customers, conveying product condition and providing a visual representation of your item.

Why is optimising titles so important?

Optimising your titles ensures a clear representation of your products, maximising the chances of buyers discovering and purchasing them. Additionally, eBay's default search option, Best Match, relies on item listing titles to deliver the most relevant results.

Tips to optimise your titles:

- Use a minimum of 65 characters (80 is even better)
- Clearly state the item's identity, even if it repeats the category name
- Include package size and weight to accurately calculate postage and return costs
- Include relevant keywords, terms and natural phrases
- Avoid technical jargon, acronyms or excessive capitalisation

Here's a suggested structure to follow:

[Brand] [Product Name] [Model No.]
[Variants – Size, colour] [Additional Keywords]

For example

LG Refrigerator GR-D907SL 907
Litre French 3-Door Fridge Freezer Ice Maker

Images

Why are product images so important?

Product images play a vital role in capturing customer attention, showcasing the condition of your product and allowing shoppers to envision owning your item.

Did you know?

Sellers who add a second image, on average, increase their conversion rate by over 5%. And with each additional picture, that conversion rate only increases.

Here's how to make the most of your product images:

- Include up to 24 photos - it's free with every listing
- Photograph your item against a clean white background
- Avoid adding any text or borders to your images
- Whenever possible, opt for professional-quality images
- Utilise multiple images, showcasing different angles and close-ups
- Ensure photos have a minimum resolution of 500 pixels (preferably 1600 pixels) on the longest side

Introduce the Image Clean-up tool

Say goodbye to distracting backgrounds and hello to a clean, white backdrop that enhances your listings for Google Shopping. By utilising clean images on a white background or captivating lifestyle images - void of text, call-outs or watermarks - you can build trust and drive traffic to your site.

Curious about how it works?

When you take or upload your photos within the eBay listing flow, our background removal tool allows you to eliminate unwanted backgrounds from any of your pictures. You can also take advantage of this feature to edit photos in your existing listings via the app or desktop.

Item Specifics

What are Item Specifics?

Item specifics, including brand, make, model, size, colour and style, play a pivotal role in helping shoppers discover your items on eBay. By adding these details to your listings, we can connect you with the right buyers.

Why do Item Specifics matter?

By incorporating Item Specifics, you'll experience a range of benefits:

Increased search visibility

Your listings will only appear in buyers' filtered search results if you've included the relevant Item Specifics information.

Improved search ranking

Item Specifics elevate your listings to higher positions in search results, both on eBay and other search engines like Google Shopping.

Targeted buyer connections

When you provide comprehensive Item Specifics, we can better connect you with buyers actively seeking your products.

Inclusion in new buyer experiences

Listing with Item Specifics enhances buyer experiences on the platform, showcasing similar items, cross-selling and suggesting relevant inventory.

eBay tools to simplify updating Item Specifics

We've got your back with a range of resources to make adding or updating Item Specifics a breeze:

Download/Upload file

Accessible on the Seller Hub Active Listings page, this feature enables you to download a spreadsheet of your listings, identify and update missing item specifics in bulk and easily re-upload the file to apply the changes.

Bulk editing of Item Specifics

From the Seller Hub Active Listings page, select multiple listings and click the "Add item specifics" button. This convenient feature loads all your selected listings into a pop-up for efficient editing.

Quick filters

Keep an eye out for quick filters displayed on your Seller Hub Active Listings page. These filters highlight listings missing Required, Required soon, or Recommended Item Specifics, helping you quickly identify and address any gaps.

Required Soon feature

When creating a new listing or revising an existing one, you'll notice indicators in your listing flow that highlight the Item Specifics that will soon become mandatory.

Task reminders in Seller Hub and My eBay

If you have listings missing Required, Required Soon, or Recommended Item Specifics, corresponding tasks will be visible in Seller Hub, or modules in your My eBay Selling Overview.

Item Specifics ranking

These rankings appear in the listing flow and provide guidance on which non-required Item Specifics your buyers are searching for.

Required vs Recommended Item Specifics

"Required" Item Specifics

These are considered essential information for buyers shopping for these products. You won't be able to create or revise listings without entering these details.

"Recommended" Item Specifics

These are based on frequently searched terms. Including recommended Item Specifics will help buyers to find your listings more easily and understand exactly what you're selling.

Taking time away

Whether planned or unexpected, our Time Away settings have got you covered. Choose from two options:

- Hide fixed price listings from search for 1 to 30 days

- If you need to take unexpected time off, Time Away allows you to hide and resurface your listings in close to real-time

If you choose to schedule Time Away in advance, we'll adjust handling times and estimated delivery dates on your behalf. We'll even remove any negative feedback related to postage issues or delays while your settings are active.

While you're away, buyers can still message you, and you can set up an automatic response. Remember to fulfil prior selling obligations, including posting sold items.

Postage best practices

Offer free postage

Capture buyer attention with free postage. It's prominently displayed in search results because we know how much buyers love it. 81% of shoppers consider free delivery over a certain threshold important (Australia Post Delivery Experience Report 2023). If free postage isn't feasible, entice buyers with a combined postage discount for multiple items.

Maximise your potential:

30%

of shoppers have increased their basket size to qualify for free shipping.*

90%

of eBay buyers have used fast and/or free delivery.*

2x

as likely to be sold compared to listings without.*

*Based on sold item per view conversion of listings with free shipping vs. listings with paid shipping of all sellers from January - March 2023.

Offer multiple postage services

Express delivery

Stand out from the competition by offering both free postage on standard delivery and the option for buyers to upgrade to an express service at a price you set.

Tracked and untracked services

Consider adding a tracked letter service as an upgrade, even at a cost to the buyer. This way, they have control over how their item is sent while you provide additional value. Sendle 250g service is a perfect tracked option for lightweight items with pricing starting from $4.48 for same city deliveries. You can access these eBay negotiated rates by purchasing your postage labels on eBay. More information on eBay Postage Labels below.

Master the essentials

Fast handling time

Aim for a 0-1 day handling time, an ideal practice and a requirement for eBay Plus. Ensure you send your items within your stated handling time to avoid 'late shipment' defects in Seller Standards.

Upload tracking

Tracking is the key to smoother transactions. By providing tracking information, you offer buyers peace of mind, reducing their need to contact you. It can also protect you against 'Item Not Received' claims.

Did you know?

If you don't upload valid tracking information, you're 3x more likely to receive an Item Not Received claim*

*Based on all transactions on eBay.com.au from January - March 2023.

Tracking can be uploaded in multiple ways:

- Automatically with eBay Postage Labels
- Automatically through your integration partner
- Automatically by linking your postage provider account to eBay
- Manually in Seller Hub on eBay (Individually or in Bulk)

Top three tips for tracking on eBay:

1. Select the correct postage service for your listing.
2. Upload the tracking number promptly when you send the item.
3. Double-check and ensure accuracy when entering the tracking number.

Smart postage management

Set postage costs by region

Utilise eBay postage rate tables to set region-specific rates. Buyers will see the relevant postage cost for their location, and prices will be set according to buyer location. Refer to page 11 for more details.

eBay Postage Labels

Simplify your postage process with eBay Postage Labels. Pay for postage and print your Australia Post and Sendle labels, all within eBay. Just select the orders awaiting postage in your Seller Hub, and click 'Purchase postage label'.

Benefits of eBay Postage Labels:

1. Prepaid postage labels from Australia Post and Sendle from $4.48 inc. GST for same city Sendle 250g deliveries.
2. Automatic tracking upload to eBay for seamless tracking updates.
3. eBay populates the buyer's address automatically and you are able to choose your postage service depending on your preference.
4. Enjoy the convenience of Sendle Parcel Pickup, with no extra cost for home or office pickups.
5. Effortlessly print labels in bulk, paying for postage and printing labels for multiple orders at once.

Sendle - Discounted Business Rates

If you post an average of 20 or more parcels per week, you may be eligible for eBay negotiated discounted business rates with Sendle, when you print your labels via eBay Postage Labels. This includes both Sendle's pickup and drop off services. To qualify for discounted business rates with Sendle, you must be using a minimum of 160 Sendle postage labels over an 8 week period. Once you qualify, you'll see the discounted rates for Sendle delivery options when buying and printing postage labels on eBay.

Postage policies and rate tables

Get ready to revolutionise your postage game with eBay's user-friendly and professional tools. Postage policies and rate tables are your ticket to streamlined postage, shipping, accurate costs and satisfied buyers by allowing you to select postage services, costs, handling times and apply promotional discounts. Once you create a postage policy, you can apply it to individual listings or in bulk using our bulk edit tool.

Postage Policies & Rate Tables

1. Set postage costs for 115 regions: With up to 40 unique tables per account, you have the power to tailor your postage rates to different regions, ensuring fairness and transparency.
2. Give buyers choice: Embrace the flexibility of offering both Standard and Express delivery options, catering to diverse buyer preferences.
3. Choose your shipping service and cost: Select the most suitable carrier and specify the cost per region, ensuring accurate and reliable delivery estimates.

Unlock the potential of free postage

We always recommend offering free postage whenever possible. To implement this enticing option for specific regions, simply set the value in your table to $0 in your rate table. For regions not included in the rate table, we'll calculate the rate based on the flat postage cost specified in your postage policy.

Make sure to specify an accurate handling time and the most suitable postage service to receive accurate delivery estimates. The Standard Parcel Delivery postage service option should only be selected if the carrier you are using is not listed or you use an aggregator to ship your items.

You have three criteria to set your postage rates

Item

Set different rates and options based on the item's destination.

Weight

Establish a fixed base cost and add the amount per kg.

Surcharge

Define a base cost and add a surcharge specific to each region.

Begin setting up your postage rate tables via two avenues:

3. No dangerous goods.
4. No age-prohibited items.

Returns

Managing returns

Choosing an attractive returns policy is a good opportunity to build trust and loyalty with your buyers. Here's how to handle returns like a pro and keep your customers coming back for more:

Your returns policy covers products that buyers are returning for "change of mind" or "remorse" reasons. Regardless of your returns policy, you're still required to accept returns for items that are damaged, faulty or otherwise not as described.

Easy returns for buyer satisfaction

Did you know?

Offering an easy return option increases the likelihood of buyers shopping by nearly 50%. It instills confidence in their purchase, encourages repeat business and makes it hassle-free for them to change their mind.

Extend your return window

Offer peace of mind to your customers with a generous return window. We recommend a minimum of 30-day returns, preferably 60 days. Allowing extra time ensures customer satisfaction as they may not open their purchases right away. Additionally, 30-day returns are required to qualify for eBay Plus.

See how increasing your return window can benefit your business:

If you currently offer	And move to	You'll see a conversion rate lift* of
No returns	30-60 days free returns	Up to 41%
30 days free returns	60 days free returns	Up to 37%

*Based on sold item per view the conversion of listings with returns not accepted vs returns accepted of business sellers from January - March 2023.

"Free returns" refers to when the seller pays return postage no matter the reason for return, with no restocking fee.

Effective return requests

We want to make returns easier for both you and your buyers. Returns on eBay should reduce the time you have to spend managing returns and refunds on eBay, and also help reduce buyer contacts. Also, if an item is lost in transit on its way back to you and there was valid tracking uploaded, we may be able to help.

Returns on eBay:

1. When a buyer creates a return and you offer returns for that listing, it will be auto-accepted when it's in line with your returns policy or our eMBG policy (unless an item is being returned due to 'Arrived damaged' or 'Missing parts or pieces').
2. The buyer will be provided with a return label instantly in most cases if the return was auto-accepted. Tracking will be uploaded automatically so you can track the parcel's journey.
3. a) If you offer free returns or the item is being returned for any reason covered under the eMBG policy, eBay will provide the cheapest return label available for the buyer. You will only be charged when the label is used.

b) If the buyer is responsible for the return postage the buyer will choose between Australia Post and HUBBED. Any return postage costs will be deducted from their refund.
4. Once you receive the returned item you will be able to review and issue a full or partial refund if eligible. Remember to refund the buyer within 3 business days of receiving the return, or we may automatically issue a refund to them on your behalf.

Seller Performance

When it comes to selling on eBay, buyer confidence is key. Our performance metrics and requirements are designed to empower you to provide exceptional service and identify areas for improvement.

Let's dive into the two types of monthly evaluations and key performance metrics that shape your seller level.

Seller Standards

In the seller standards evaluation, we're measuring individual performance on factors within a seller's control – such as sending items on time – to determine your seller level.

Service Metrics

Service metrics evaluation compares your performance to a 'peer group' of sellers with a similar profile. We focus on identifying sellers who exhibit significantly higher rates of buyers not receiving their ordered items or items received not as described.

You can view detailed breakdowns of all your seller performance metrics in your Seller dashboard and Service metrics dashboard.

Seller Standards

What are Seller Standards?

Seller Standards reflect your ability to meet or exceed our minimum requirements.

Each month, on the 20th, we evaluate your recent sales and assign you one of the following levels:

Top Rated

You're exceeding our performance expectations, have an established sales history and are adhering to eBay policies.

Above Standard

You're meeting our expectations.

Below Standard

Your performance has dipped below our minimum requirements, which may lead to limitations on your selling activity, including charging higher final value fees, until improvement is demonstrated.

Top tip:

Regularly check your Seller Dashboard to track your performance and take proactive measures to address any issues before the next evaluation. If your seller level has dropped, prioritise resolving cases without seller resolution and minimising out of stock cancellations as soon as possible to improve your metrics. For additional guidance, explore our resources on monitoring and improving your seller performance.

How we calculate your seller level

On the 20th of each month, we take a look at your recent transactions to work out your:

1. Cases closed without seller resolution
2. Transaction defect rate
3. Late shipment rate

1. Cases closed without seller resolution

What it means:

When a buyer reports that an item hasn't arrived or requests a return, it's crucial for sellers to address the issue promptly. A case closed without seller resolution occurs when a seller fails to resolve the buyer's issue, leading to eBay stepping in and the seller being held responsible.

For full details of actions, time frames, requirements for sellers and how we decide the outcome of a case, please read our eBay Money Back Guarantee policy.

Minimum requirements

Within an evaluation period, you're allowed up to 2 cases closed without seller resolution or 0.3% of your transactions, whichever is higher. Ensuring prompt resolutions and open communication with buyers can help minimise such cases and enhance your performance.

2. Transaction defect rate

We consider a transaction defect to occur in two instances:

Unexpected order cancellation

When a seller cancels an order unexpectedly due to reasons like item unavailability or selling it to another buyer.

Unresolved buyer issues

If a buyer reports an issue, but the seller fails to resolve it, resulting in a case closed without seller resolution (as defined earlier).

Minimum requirements

Within an evaluation period, you're allowed a maximum of 2% of transactions with defects.

Note that being evaluated as Below Standard required transaction defects associated with more than 4 different buyers.

3. Late shipment rate

We strive to provide buyers with accurate delivery expectations. As a seller, it's your responsibility to post items within your stated handling time, using the selected delivery service.

How we count a late shipment depends on whether you've uploaded tracking information from an integrated carrier:

- For tracked shipments, we consider an item late when the delivery scan occurs after the expected delivery date and there is no carrier scan within your handling time.
- If no tracking information is available, we rely on buyer feedback. When a buyer confirms that the item arrived after the expected delivery date, it will be counted as late.

While a high late shipment rate alone won't lead to Below Standard evaluation, maintaining a low rate is necessary to achieve Top Rated status.

Top Rated seller requirements

Seller performance evaluation

- Cases closed without seller resolution: Keep it to a maximum of 2 or just 0.3% of transactions.
- Transaction defect rate: Maintain it below 0.5%, associated with no more than 3 different buyers.
- Late shipment rate: Ensure it stays under 5 or below 5% of transactions.

Selling activity

- Active account for at least 90 days
- Minimum of 100 transactions and AU $1,000 in sales over the past 12 months
- Compliance with eBay's selling practices policy

If you fall Below Standard

If your evaluation on the 20th of the month reveals a failure to meet our minimum standards, certain limitations may be imposed on your selling activity until your performance improves.

Possible limitations include:

- Lower placement in Best Match search results for your items
- Decreased selling limits
- Inability to use eBay Advertising, create new campaigns or modify existing campaigns
- Funds from orders placed on hold until tracking information confirms shipment to the buyer
- Ineligibility for an eBay Plus badge on your listings
- Inability to provide partial refunds for used or damaged returned items
- Additional 5.5% (incl. GST) charge on the percentage portion of your final value fees, resulting in a 10%fee becoming 15.5%

For more information, visit our Seller standards page and see our section on what happens if you are Below Standard.

Service Metrics

Service Metrics offer a comprehensive assessment of your performance and enable you to benchmark yourself against sellers with a similar profile. Rather than relying solely on sales percentages, we delve deeper to evaluate your rates of 'Item not received' and 'Item not as described' within the context of your item type, pricing, postage options and terms of sale.

On the 20th of each month, we assess your service metrics and assign one of the following rates based on your performance compared to your peers:

Low

You excel in ensuring prompt delivery and effectively managing buyers' expectations, outperforming most of your peers.

Average

You perform on par with your peers, but there may be opportunities to reduce preventable requests.

High

While your performance may not match that of your peers in terms of ensuring expected order deliveries, if your high service metrics rate is below 1%, it will be adjusted to 'Average'.

Very High

Your 'Item not received' rate or 'Item not as described' rate significantly deviates from your peers. If the very high service metrics rate falls below 1%, it will be adjusted to 'Average'.

Top tip:

Regularly monitor your Service metrics dashboard to gain valuable insights into your performance and compare yourself to other sellers in the marketplace.

If your rates of 'Item not received' or 'Item not as described' have increased, or are higher than your peers, it's crucial to address these issues promptly. By minimising these issues, you'll improve your rating at the next evaluation. For further assistance, consult our article on monitoring and improving your seller performance.

How we benchmark performance

We believe in fair comparisons, that's why we benchmark your performance against other sellers who share similar sales activity, items and business policies. By doing so, we provide you with meaningful insights to track your progress.

	'Item not received' rate	'Item not as described' return rate
What it means	This metric represents the percentage of transactions where a buyer reported that the item failed to arrive or wasn't available for collection.	This metric represents the percentage of your transactions where a buyer requested a return due to reasons such as non-functionality, mismatched description or photos, wrong item sent, missing parts, damage upon arrival or authenticity concerns.
Who we compare against	We evaluate your performance alongside sellers who: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Have a comparable transaction volume during the same evaluation period • Sell items on the same eBay site, with similar pricing • Post to the same destinations with similar expected delivery timeframes 	We assess your performance relative to other sellers who: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Have a comparable transaction volume during the same evaluation period • Sell items in the same categories, with similar pricing and item condition • Maintain similar return policies and delivery timeframes

For a deeper understanding of our evaluation process, please visit our Service metrics policy page and explore the calculation examples.

When your rating is Very High

If your service metrics evaluation reveals significantly higher 'Item not received' and 'Item not as described' rates compared to your peers, we want to ensure a positive buying experience. To help address these concerns and improve your performance, we recommend checking out our article on monitoring and improving your seller performance.

Very High 'Item not received' rate

To manage buyer expectations, potential measures may include:

- Adding extra estimated delivery time for the postage destinations associated with Very High rates
- Exclusion from displaying an eBay Plus badge on your listings
- Inability to provide partial refunds for used or damaged returns

Very High 'Item not as described' rate

To maintain buyer confidence, potential measures may include:

- Exclusion from displaying an eBay Plus badge on your listings
- Inability to provide partial refunds for used or damaged returns
- Additional 5.5% (incl. GST) on the percentage portion of your final value fees for categories with Very High rates (e.g. a 10% final value fee would increase to 15.5%)

For more information on how to navigate these circumstances, please visit our Service metrics page and explore the section on What happens if your rating is Very High.

How to sell internationally

There are two ways to sell internationally on eBay - Basic or Advanced.

Basic International Selling

Perfect for those new to international selling, Basic International Selling allows you to make your existing ebay.com.au listings available to international buyers. Here's how to get started:

1. Set up a postage policy that includes International Postage.
2. When creating a listing, select an option under international postage in the Postage details section.

Why Try Basic International Selling?

Basic International Selling offers numerous benefits, including:

- A 5% discount on Australia Post International Standard and Express delivery
- Instantly increase exposure: Your listings will appear in advanced search results in countries you choose to ship to, expanding your visibility
- No extra fees: Pay the usual eBay.com.au insertion fees and final value fees, regardless of the buyers location
- Automatic translation: Where available, item titles will be translated to the local language and prices are converted to local currency
- Effortless listing and inventory management: Compared to advanced international shipping, Basic International Selling requires less effort and offers simplified inventory management

Advanced International Selling

If you're ready to take your international selling to the next level, Advanced international selling is for you as it allows you to reach more buyers and increase your conversion. It involves listing directly on each local eBay site, such as ebay.com (United States), ebay.co.uk (United Kingdom), ebay.fr (France). Here's how to get started:

1. Use your existing eBay.com.au credentials to login to international eBay site(s)
2. Create your listings on the selected international eBay site(s)
3. Specify postage services and cost

Why Try Advanced International Selling?

Advanced International Selling offers unique advantages, including:

- Greater in-market visibility: Your products appear in default search results on international eBay sites, just like those of domestic sellers
- Tailored listings for each market: Adjust pricing and translate item descriptions to appeal to local buyers on each international site
- Access to local selling tools: Benefit from all the selling tools available on the international eBay site where you list your items

Selling in countries that don't have an eBay site

Reach buyers in expanding markets like Brazil, Russia, China and more, even if eBay doesn't have a local site there.

Best practices

- Start with Basic International Selling to test the market and assess your opportunities
- Whether you choose Basic or Advanced International Selling, include as many item specifics as possible to increase your item's chances of being found
