

Final chance to replace remaining links

The official deadline to replace remaining rover-based links passed months ago – but, if you haven't yet done so, please convert your links today or risk losing all your hard work with eBay!

We have identified your account as one still getting clicks from rover links.

As you know, eBay Partner Network has moved from rover-based tracking links to a new tracking link format, which complies with today's industry standards. All ePN tools and widgets, eBay's Data Feeds, and Browse APIs have automatically started serving new tracking links.

All remaining rover-based links on your properties will stop working very soon. Convert all your links today with our helpful new Link Conversion Tool, part of the Smart Share browser extension.
