FAQ :

1. Why was my auction shut down?

The unauthorized or unlicensed production and/or sale of merchandise bearing 3Skulls marks, or marks confusingly similar thereto, is illegal. Any product that uses the 3Skull name or logo is considered infringing. This also includes any reference to 3Skull in the advertisement of the merchandise.

Your auction was reported to eBay and shut down because the merchandise and/or advertisement of that merchandise appear to violate the intellectual property rights of 3Skull.

2. What does that mean for my auction items?

All products made with the 3Skull logo or bearing images that resemble 3Skull must be approved by 3Skull. Use your own images.

3. Why are others still allowed to sell these items?

3Skull makes extensive efforts to police eBay auctions for any and all potentially infringing merchandise. However, some sellers may unintentionally be overlooked or are purchasing directly from 3Skull. Please contact us at vero@3skull.com with Ebay Item#'s, we check every item# sent to us. Thank You.

4. Where can I get licensed 3Skull products?

3Skull products are exclusively available through Ultimate Paintball (<http://www.ultimatepaintball.com/>)

5. What if I am only selling one infringing product as part of a group of products?

Whether the infringing product is being sold as a single item or as a component of a group of products, it is still infringing. If a single auction includes both infringing and non-infringing products, the auction will be shut down in order to put a stop to the sale of the infringing product. If the infringing product is removed, then the remainder of the group may be re-listed.
