

Barnett Research and Computer Imaging

Barnett Research and Computer Imaging is a member of eBay's VeRO program. My photographs placed on any website created and maintained by me, or used on any website with my permission are protected by copyright and are not available for general use without my express written permission.

Specifically, someone wishing to use one of my photographs published on the Porter's Orchids website, the Greater Lansing Orchid Society's site, my personal site or any other internet site where I have placed them must contact me personally before any use is made of them. Use of my photos without my explicit written permission is unethical and illegal.

I am the "Computer Imaging" portion of our business. I do the photography and web pages for a commercial orchid grower as well as for the Greater Lansing Orchid Society. To see my photos, click any of the links below. I am a retired college teacher of photography (both creative and technical), painting, drawing, sculpture, and most recently, Photoshop and Painter.

My husband is the researcher. His specialty is Michigan History. He is Contributing Editor of Michigan History Magazine and also writes for The Chronical, a publication by the Historical Society of Michigan. He has written and co-authored several books about Michigan history.
