

Bloomberg

Bloomberg L.P. (“Bloomberg”) is one of the largest providers of financial data, news, analytical tools and related goods and services. Bloomberg is the owner of the “Bloomberg” trade name and BLOOMBERG trademark and service marks. Bloomberg or its affiliates also manufacture, and supply Bloomberg branded, proprietary equipment and hardware (“Bloomberg Equipment”) which is leased to Bloomberg customers for as long as they have a license for the BLOOMBERG PROFESSIONAL® service. On expiry of the license, the Bloomberg Equipment is to be returned to Bloomberg as a condition of the agreement. Bloomberg always maintains ownership of the Bloomberg Equipment, and there is no legitimate or authorized secondary market for it.

Why was my item removed? It has come to our attention that you are offering Bloomberg Equipment on eBay Inc.’s website, located at www.ebay.com.

As mentioned above, Bloomberg only provides Bloomberg Equipment to its customers for as long as they have a license for the BLOOMBERG PROFESSIONAL® service. At no stage does Bloomberg offer or sell the Bloomberg Equipment to the general public and consequently, there is, no secondary market in any Bloomberg Equipment. As a result, the Bloomberg Equipment offered for auction by you may have been stolen or otherwise misappropriated and remains the property of Bloomberg. In light of the above, you do not have permission, right, or authority to offer for sale or purchase any Bloomberg Equipment and you are requested to immediately contact the Bloomberg contact listed below in order to make arrangements for the return of any Bloomberg Equipment in your possession to Bloomberg.

Why did I receive a notice? Bloomberg takes the return of its licensed proprietary equipment very seriously. To assist in the recovery of Bloomberg Equipment, Bloomberg has authorized Mark Monitor to act on its behalf in retrieving its Equipment. If you receive a message from Bloomberg or its authorized agent, please comply with their request for the prompt return of any Bloomberg Equipment that may be in your possession.

Who should I contact at Bloomberg? Please contact Michael Raguso at mraguso@bloomberg.net to arrange for the return of any Bloomberg Equipment in your possession. Please ensure that you have the serial numbers relating to any Bloomberg Equipment in your possession available as you will be asked to provide them as well.

Thank you.