Q&A

Why was my listing removed?

You may not utilise any of our copyrighted images, including framing or combining them with other images or text in your listings without prior written consent.

How can I tell if an image is owned by the rights owner?

Most, but not all of our images are watermarked with either our logo or copyright statement.

What is our intellectual property protection policy?

Use of any of our trademarks, logo or image without authorisation displayed on any of our sales channels is strictly prohibited. We will aggressively enforce any of our intellectual property rights including criminal prosecution.

Reporting of Listings eBay is monitored by us daily and any listings with unauthorised use of our intellectual property will be removed. We also welcome any information or notification about misuse of our intellectual property which will be kept strictly confidential.

Please note the following: Although our images and content are of items with the registered trademarks and brands of others, the content is used legally for the purposes of selling these products and is for descriptive purposes only. We are in no way affiliated with, authorised, sponsored or otherwise related in any way to the manufacturers, brand owners and/or distributors of the trademarks shown in our images.
