VeRO challenge rules explained

- Creating a new product using philosophy® trademark as a base or transferring philosophy® goods into a "non-philosophy" container, and then passing those goods off as "genuine" Philosophy® product, for profit, is in direct violation of the law. Continuing to auction goods in this manner can and will subject you to both civil and criminal remedies and penalties. Philosophy® will simply not allow activity like this to occur and/or continue.
- Unauthorized use of the Philosophy® logo, trademark and/or any registered or unregistered trademark owned by Philosophy® is strictly prohibited. Any link or reference to Philosophy® or philosophy.com of a commercial nature is strictly prohibited. Continuing to reference philosophy in this manner to auction goods can and will subject you to both civil and criminal remedies and penalties. Philosophy® will simply not allow activity like this to occur and/or continue.
- Philosophy® is a registered trademark. Philosophy® also owns many other registered and unregistered trademarks. We do not condone or allow the use of any of our trademarks or copyrighted materials by anyone except philosophy® and/or its agents. Unauthorized use of our trademarks or recreation of any of our copyrighted materials in your advertisements, including but not limited to copying by cut-and-paste or manual transcription, is prohibited by law. Continuing to auction goods in this manner can and will subject you to both civil and criminal remedies and penalties. Philosophy® will simply not allow activity like this to occur and/or continue.
- Pursuant to reason above, unauthorized posting of images which are hosted on webspace owned and operated by Philosophy® and/or its licensed affiliates drains bandwidth from the webspace and costs Philosophy® and/or its licensed affiliates money every time the page containing the image is viewed. Continuing to use philosophy® and/or its licensed affiliates' bandwidth in this manner to auction goods can and will subject you to both civil and criminal remedies and penalties. Philosophy® will simply not allow activity like this to occur and/or continue.

Notice to eBay sellers:

Philosophy® will pursue all avenues to reduce/eliminate such activities on eBay and elsewhere. The sheer quantity of items being offered for sale on eBay requires that significant resources be applied to review and challenge those sellers on an item by item basis as required by the VeRO Program. On this occasion, your item(s) came to our attention and were challenged. As we become aware of others, we will pursue them in due course. Please refer to our regulations concerning intellectual property and limited license.
